

D-180
Willis House
Church Creek
Private

Early 19th Century

The Willis House is one of the most interesting dwellings in Church Creek and is also smaller than most houses in town. An unusual feature is the fireplace back, which is exposed on the exterior. Also, there is a one-story wing, which has an arched motif above a batten door. This was probably an arcade to the kitchen, as was the case at the Dr. Dorsey Wyvil House pictured in Elias Jones's New Revised History of Dorchester County, Maryland (Cambridge, Md.: Tidewater Publishers, 1925; 1966).

See also: Church Creek, Vol. IV

D-180
Willis House
White Haven Rd.
Church Creek
Church Creek Quad.
Dorchester Co.

11x1-74

50% D-180

D-180

Willis Hse